

Abstract

The present invention relates to a tool for selecting winners and losers based on their market position using a volume/turnover filter. Using the present tool, investors may predict 5 when to hold some stocks long and others short over various time period, thereby maximizing the profitability of a portfolio.